KEEP OUT OF POLITICS

Is the Advice of Arie Bryant, the Exile, to Fellow Negroes.

TALKED FREELY ON TRAIN.

Tells of His Saturday Night Experience. Thinks There Are Blood-Thirsty People in Wilmington—Negro Exodus Continues.

Arie Bryant, the returned exile negro who so narrowly escaped a severe thrashing with a cat-o-nine tails at the hands of a company of indignant citizens Saturday night, has certainly left Wilmington and declares that he cannot be induced to venture back here any more.

The STAR on Saturday morning told of how more than a hundred armed and determined citizens assembled in the vicinity of Bryant's home Saturday night determined to administer him a severe thrashing for having dared to come back here after the positive instructions given him last November never to show his face in the city again; how they failed to find their man, and it was believed that he had been forewarned of the movement and fled from the city.

Bryant Heard From.

Yesterday's developments in the Bryant case were quite interesting. It was learned that he had been seen at Scott's Hill, where he bought a ticket to Norfolk, declaring that it was his purpose to continue his journey to Philadelphia, where he will go into business. This report was confirmed by people on the Newbern train arriving here early in the afternoon, Captain Crepon and a number of the passengers, saying that they passed Bryant at Verona and that he was travelling on the freight train which leaves this city for Newbern at 6.45 A. M. every other day.

The Exile Talked Freely.

Capt. W. A. Johnson, roadmaster of the W. and N. road told a member of the STAR staff last night that he travelled in the same car with Bryant from Scotts hill to Verona, a distance of 35 miles, on the frieght train yesterday and during that time he (Bryant) talked quite freely much of the conversation being addressed to negroes in the car and merely overheard by Capt. Johnson.

Saw the Posse of Citizens.

In speaking of how he evaded the citizens who were searching for him Saturday night, Bryant said that he was concealed in the house of Andrew J. Walker, colored, across the street from his (Bryant's) residence Saturday night and saw more than a hundred men, armed with guns and revolvers, break open the door and search the house. He said several shots were fired and that one of the members of the party was accidentally shot through the foot.

Continuing, Bryant said that he came back to Wilmington last Thursday. And, learning that there was a sentiment against allowing him to remain he went to Mayor Waddell and asked for protection. Col. Waddell, he said, replied that he could protect him during the day but could not assure him protection at night. This, Bryant said, was a very unsatisfactory answer. After that he was afraid to sleep at home and that accounts for his not having been there when the citizens made their call. Bryant said that he is convinced that there are many blood-thirsty people in Wilmington and he therefore lost no time in getting out of the city.

On the Stool of Repentance.

During his discourse to the negroes in the car Bryant said that the negroes of Wilmington made a great mistake in ever going into politics. By so doing they, he said, only elevated Dan Russell, G. Z. French and other white Republicans to power, while the negroes bore the blame of their maladministration. As for himself he announced his intention to never have anything more to do with politics.

A negro Republican, conspicuous in Pender county politics, took Bryant to task for his views and insisted that it was a right that the negro should and must exercise. However, it was evident that the weight of influence was with Bryant's views among the negroes on the train.

A Star for Tom Miller.

During the ride to Verona Bryant took a copy of Sunday's MORNING STAR from his pocket and said that he was carrying it to Norfolk, where he would see T. C. Miller and several other negroes who were exiled last November, so that they could read for themselves and see just how they might expect to fare if they dared to come back to Wilmington.

Negro Exodus Continues.

Arie Bryant is not the only negro who has left Wilmington within the last day or two for good. The outgoing W. & N. train yesterday afternoon carried at least ten, who purchased tickets for various points north with the avowed purpose of never returning. There were probably 150 other negroes at the depot to see them off, and many of them said that they would leave just as soon as they can make the arrangements.

The Newbern route is the most popular one among the negroes for going north, and Captain Crepon told a Star reporter yesterday that regularly on Mondays, Wednesdays and Saturdays, when connection is made with the boat north, large parties of negroes are carried out from here: never less than ten or twelve, and much oftener as many as forty or fifty.

RAILROADS IN ROBESON.

Three New Railroads in Course of Construction—Extensive Telephone Connections.

A. W. McLean, Esq. and Mr. Geo. G. French, of Lumberton, spent Sunday and yesterday in the city and on Wrightsville Beach. Both these gentlemen are full of enthusiasm for the rapid progress which their town and county (Robeson) are making in industrial development.

To a STAR representative Mr. McLean said yesterday that three new railroads are in process of construction. One is from Ashpole to Hub, a distance of 12 miles, being an extension as the Southeastern of the A. C. L. system; another is an extension of the Carolina and Northern from Lumberton to Marion, S. C., a distance of 50 miles; and the third is an extension of "Blue's" railroad so that it will extend from Aberdeen through the upper part of Robeson county to Hope Mill via Roiford.

On the Lumberton-Marion extension of the Carolina and Northern the track has been graded more than five miles and the rails, etc., have been shipped so that the work of laying the track will commence within 60 days. A road is also surveyed from Lumberton to the Cape Fear river toward Goldsboro.

Mr. McLean is president of the telephone stock company which has communication with almost every town in the county is well as all the leading country merchants. The system Mr. McLean says is paying a good dividend on the money invested.

HUGH C. HAMILTON, ESQ., DEAD.

Departed This Life Saturday in Hickory. Was Mrs. W. H. Sprunt's Father.

There died at Hickory, N. C., on Saturday night last, the venerable and beloved Christian gentleman, Hugh C. Hamilton, Esq., at the advanced age of 85 years. He was the father of Mrs. W. H. Sprunt, who left here Saturday in response to a telegram announcing his serious illness. She reached there too late to see her father alive, but in time to attend the funeral yesterday.

Of superior intellectual attainments and unblemished integrity, dignified, benevolent and of never failing courtesy, Mr. Hamilton exemplified in his long eventful life the pleasing traits of the old time Southern gentleman. He was one of the earliest and most devoted friends of Stonewall Jackson, and his interesting reminiscences of notable men and affairs were a source of constant pleasure to those who were favored by his friendship.

Cards have been issued for the marriage of Miss Stella Thomson, of Fayetteville, to Mr. Robert Dickson Wescott, son of Mr. R. M. Wescott, of this city. They read as follows:

District M. E. Conference.

The Methodist District Conference and Sunday School Convention, Rev. R. F. Bumpass presiding, meets at Southport to-morrow, continuing through the Sunday following. The opening sermon will be preached by Rev. R. B. Culbreth, pastor of Bladen Street M. E. Church, of this city. The congregation of Grace Church has elected the following delegates: Col. Roger Moore, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Garrell and Miss Mamie Alderman. The alternates are Mrs. C. C. Covington, Miss Janie Horn, Dr. W. C. Galloway and Mr. W. B. Cooper.

Excursion and Picnic.

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Sunday School announces their annual excursion to Lake Waccamaw on Thursday of this week. The train will leave the A. C. L. depot at 9 A. M., leaving the lake on the return trip at 5 P. M. Many people have come to look forward to these annual excursions to this beautiful picnic ground with assurances of very great pleasure, and no doubt an especially large excursion train will be required to accommodate the patrons of Thursday's excursion.

Local Shipping.

There were arrivals of three schooners at the port of Wilmington yesterday—the Wm. F. Green, Capt. Jonssen; the B. I. Hazard, Capt. Blatchford, with cargo of empty barrels for D. L. Gore and the Lizzie S. James, Capt. Howard, with coal for J. A. Springer. All were from New York consigned to Geo. Harriss, Son & Co. The steamer Driver came down from Fayetteville on her regular trip Sunday morning, clearing at 4'oclock yesterday afternoon for the return.

Officers Elected.

Campbell Encampment No. 1, I. O. O. F., at its regular meeting held last night, elected the following officers to serve for the ensuing term:

C. P.—W. H. Badon.
H. P.—E. F. Johnson.
S. W.—A. W. Allen.
J. W.—Alex Boon.

Treasurer—N. Jacobi.

AT ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH.

Twenty-three Names Announced for Membership Sunday Morning—Contribution Doubled.

Sunday was a day of especial interest for the congregation of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. It was the regular day for the holy communion, which was administered at the 11 o'clock service and twenty-three names were announced for membership in the church. Of that number six are to be baptized. Seventeen of these were in attendance Sunday morning. These acquisitions are a partial result of the excellent work done here by Rev. William Black, Synodical evangelist, and his assistant, Rev. A. K. Poole.

Two new members were also received after the service Sunday. This ingathering of members is the largest that has been made at a single service at St. Andrew's Church since the great Pearson meetings ten years ago.

It will be of interest to note in this connection that since the meetings by Rev. Messrs. Black and Poole St. Andrew's Church has doubled its annual contribution to the great work to which these faithful ministers are devoting their talents—that of Synodical evangelization.

APPLICATIONS FOR LIQUOR LICENSES.

Will be Examined by Board of Aldermen at Special Meeting To-day.

This afternoon at 3.30 o'clock a special meeting of the Board of Aldermen will be held for the purpose of examining applications for liquor license, which the law requires shall be procured by retail dealers on or before July 1st. The special session is made necessary from the fact that the regular meeting for July will not be held until the first Monday in the month—two days after the time required by law for the issuance of the licenses.

It will probably be interesting in this connection to note that the Finance Committee of the Board of Aldermen in revising the general city tax ordinance at the beginning of the fiscal year increased the privilege tax on dealers in spirituous liquors from $11 per month to $22 per month and inserted the words "may grant" upon the filing of application, etc., in place of "shall grant," etc., as appeared in the old ordinance.

Many of the dealers yesterday were busy filling in their applications and securing the necessary endorsements preparatory to the meeting of the board to-day.

ANNUAL STOCKHOLDERS' MEETING.

East Carolina Truck and Fruit Growers' Association Wednesday.

Interest among truckers is now centering on the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Eastern Carolina Truck and Fruit Growers' Association to be held in this city on Wednesday of this week. It is expected that the meeting will be one of the most largely attended in the history of the Association. As usual, the matter of refrigerator car service for shipping berries and other produce and the question of freight rates will be among the principal matters before the meeting.

Indications are that at least three companies will be in the field, striving for the patronage. Mr. W. W. Taberner, of Chicago, representing the Amour Refrigerating Company, arrived here yesterday. Mr. A. S. Mainard, of the C. F. X. Company, has been here for several days, and as heretofore the interests of the "C. F. T." Company will be represented by Mr. Charles W. Woodward, of this city.

Carolina Beach Fracas.

The participants in the melee at Carolina Beach several days ago in which H. L. Peterson and Ed Capps were very seriously wounded, were to have been given a hearing before Justice J. M. McGowan yesterday morning, but on account of Fireman Peterson's condition the investigation was postponed until Saturday. Joe Day and Emanuel Fulcher, two of the defendants in the case, are still in jail. Both the injured men were out yesterday, but were too weak to withstand the excitement of a trial. Herbert McClammy, Esq., has been retained to prosecute the case against the Day brothers and their sympathizers, and Marsden Bellamy, Esq., to conduct the defence.

A VIGOROUS PROTEST

By Many Business Men Against the City License or Privilege Tax.

PETITION HAS 107 SIGNERS.

Board of Aldermen to be Asked to Reduce the Tax Which the Petition Characterizes As "Burdensome and Unwise."

A number of the merchants and other business men of the city are very much stirred up about the city license or privilige tax which it is understood is to be rigidly enforced this year. A petition to the Board of Aldermen, protesting against the tax as "burdensome and unwise" was circulated among the business men yesterday and up to the close of business hours had been signed by 107 merchants and other business men, including a large number of the leading merchants of the city.

The petition will be presented to the Board of Aldermen at their next meeting. It is as follows:

WILMINGTON, N. C., June 19, 1899.—To the Major and Board of Aldermen—An Earnest Protest from the Merchants and Business Men of Wilmington:

The recent action of our Board of Aldermen in enforcing a license or privilege tax on the volume of business done, of two dollars and forty-cents a year or twenty cents a month on every one hundred dollars, besides one dollar per month extra, stamps their action burdensome and unwise, but favors a system which contravenes every principle of government.

The revenues of our city government, if, as heretofore, economically administered, have been enough to defray its expenses. Even if additional revenues are needed the legitimate method would be by general tax. Such methods tend to drive capital and business from the city, already here, and would be a positive embargo on capital and enterprise coming here.

A moderate volume of business of only $1,000 a day means yearly a tax of $624; plus the $12 extra, makes a total tax of $636 a year; to say nothing about our State, county, city and Schedule B taxes.

We, the undersigned, protest against this action on the part of our city, and request that the same be modified at the next meeting of the board.

GRAND CONCERT PROGRAMME.

Second Regiment Band at Ocean View Hotel Wednesday Night.

Extensive preparations are being made for the grand opening ball at the new Ocean View Hotel, which will be given complimentary by Mrs. Mayo on to-morrow night. The date was inadvertently announced as Friday night in Sunday's paper. STAR readers will remember that a sumptuous supper, a grand concert by the Second Regiment Band and a series of dances are to be features of the evening. Arrangements have been made for a late evening train to leave the beach at 11 o'clock.

The band will render the following programme, beginning at 8:45 o'clock, to-wit:

Funeral Sunday Afternoon.

The funeral of little Emma B., the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Wood was conducted Sunday afternoon from the family residence No. 815 Princess street, by Rev. A. D. McClure, pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. Many friends of the bereaved parents and sorrowing family were present to witness the funeral ceremonies and at the grave there were many beautiful floral floerings. The interment was at Oakdale cemetery. the pall-bearers being: Messrs. Linwood Latta, Henry Murphy, Donald Barnett and Samuel E. Wood.

Y. M. C. A. Services.

The Sunday afternoon Gospel service at the Y. M. C. A. auditorium was well attended and Rev. R. R. Windley delivered quite an interesting talk, the text being "Who shall stand in His holy place?" Psalms xxiv:4. The music was quite enjoyable. Mrs. Roby was pianist and Mr. Wills rendered flute accompaniments.

To-night Rev. Mr. Windley will conduct the regular Tuesday night prayer service. It is expected that State Secretary W. M. Lewis will spend next Saturday, Sunday and Monday in this city.

The Grand Lodge, Knights of Pythias, for the domain of North Carolina, will convene with Cumberland Lodge, K. of P., Fayetteville, to-night at 9 o'clock.

Among those who will go up to-day to attend the session of the lodge are: Supreme Master of Exchequer, T. D. Meares: Grand Vice Chancellor, W. J. Woodward, and Grand Representatives J. J. The East Carolina Real Estate Agency will sell for cash, or will exchange for desirable house and lot in Wilmington, a farm of 273 acres, three miles from Rose Hill. Address R. G. Grady & Co., Burgaw, N. C. †

WILMINGTON PRESBYTERY.

Will Meet at Wallace To-day—Dr. Hoge's Pastoral Relations With the First Church to be Dissolved.

The Wilmington Presbytery meets with the Presbyterian Church at Wallace to-day. As previously announced in the STAR the most notable business to engage their attention will be the consideration of the resignation of Rev. P. H. Hoge, D. D., as pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of this city. It is conceded that the pastoral relations will be dissolved to take effect July 31st. STAR readers are aware that the resignation is made necessary by Dr. Hoge's having accepted a call to the pastorate of Warren Memorial Presbyterian Church, Louisville, Ky.

Other business of special importance will be the ordination and installation of Rev. R. W. Williams as pastor of the Warsaw-Wallace group of churches, and the licensing and ordination of Rev. D. P. McGeachy who is to be placed in charge of the Burgaw group of churches.

Fatally Injured.

Stephen Howe, a 17-year old negro boy, the son of Elijah Howe, received fatal injuries last night while jumping off a train in front of the Robert Portner Brewing Company's works. He stole a ride on the 7 P. M. A. C. L. train from the Fourth street bridge to the bottling works, where, in jumping off, he fell and struck his head against the switch post, cutting a gash about five inches long across his forehead and breaking out a piece of the skull one and a half inches wide by three inches long. He was found by Lieut. Skipper and sent to the hospital, where at a late hour this morning he was still alive, but sinking rapidly.

The Dog Law.

Owners of dogs are reminded that to-day is the last opportunity for "tagging" their canine pets as required by the city tax ordinance without the trouble of going to the City Hall and identifying their property among the thousands and one other dogs that Superintendent of Streets Perry hopes to have safely lodged at police headquarters during the visit of his special "dog cart" which goes out this morning for the purpose of bringing in all those animals not wearing the required evidence of tax paid to the city. A thorough search, he says, will be made and the hauls are expected to be many.

University of North Carolina.

Special attention is directed to the announcement of the University of North Carolina, published in another column. It should be the pride of every North Carolinian that this splendid institution is enjoying the widest patronage and fullest equipment in its history. In efficiency, patronage and public favor it is now second to none in the South. Its requirements are exact, its standard rigid, its tone of life high and manly. Its academic roll is the largest in the South. Ambitious and needy boys should remember its motto is equality, opportunity and self-help.

is a great disadvantage to all, and in children is a serious menace to education, entailing injury unless promptly and properly corrected.

Last year about fifty thousand children attending the public schools of Brooklyn, were examined as to their power of hearing and vision, in order to properly seat them. Over one-third of the number was found to be deficient in one or both senses.

I will gladly diagnose any errors of refraction that may exist in your eyes, or those of your children, by a scientific test.

TUESDAY MORNING, JUNE 20, 1899.

VIEWED FROM A NORTHERN STANDPOINT.

Several days ago we published some extracts from an editorial in the New York Journal of Commerce and Commercial Bulletin on the remarkable, or, as it called it, "astonishing," increase in the number of cotton mills in the South, especially within the past few years, and more especially within the past six months. It regards this subject of so much importance that it devoted another leading editorial to it a few days ago. After calling attention to the increase in the number of mills, the number of spindles and the millions invested, it notices the fact that whereas the average increase of spindles for the past eight years was 245,000, the increase in the past five months is nearly five times that, or 1,100,000. It then comments as follows:

"The increase in the average capacity of Southern cotton mills is quite as remarkable as the increase of their number. Only a few years ago it was found that in North Carolina and Tennessee the average for each mill did not greatly exceed 4,000 spindles; that in Georgia it was a little over 8,000, and that in South Carolina alone it exceeded 10,000. It was noted as a remarkable fact that in one or two of the mills then building in South Carolina there was a capacity of 50,000 spindles. From the tabulation recently made in our news columns, it will be perceived that there are single mills building in Alabama with a capacity of 200,000 spindles and in South Carolina of 104,000 spindles. The building of small mills has by no means ceased, especially in North Carolina, where it has become a habit in the Piedmont district for communities numbering less than 1,000 inhabitants to build mills on the installment plan. That is to say, the stock is subscribed for in $100 shares, 10 per cent or 20 per cent down, and at the rate of $2 or $3 a month. It is now several years since the Southern capitalist, large and small, gained confidence in mill investments, and there has been a fixed disposition in that section to keep the development of the industry in the hands of the natives. Relatively cheap fuel and easily accessible water power have contributed as much as proximity to the cotton fields to make manufacturing more profitable in the South than in New England. Electrical appliances for the conversion and transmitted of power have given a new value to the resources of the rapids or "shoals" of the Southern rivers. This power is already being applied in the Piedmont belt, on both sides of the border between North and South Carolina, at distances of two or threen miles from the stream. But possibly the greatest advantage which the South has enjoyed in the competition of the cotton industry is in the possession of an abundance of cheap, docile and fairly intelligent native white labor. The labor problem has not yet been complicated by the intervention of the trades union, and, so far as we can ascertain, an eleven-hour law is the nearest approach that has been made to legislative restriction. The supply of labor is very far from being exhausted, because work in the mills is so much more profitable than work on the farm; but even at rates not exceeding 70c a day there are usually more applications for places than there are places to fill. The South, in short, is enjoying the advantage of conditions similar to those which prevailed in the early days of the industry of New England, when mill labor carried with it no sense of social degradation, and before it became necessary to utilize the foreign immigrant as a mill operative."

There are several points in this worthy of note, because they will have no small influence on cotton manufacturing in the South, especially in the Piedmont belt, now the great cotton manufacturing section of the South, but destined to become much greater. The transmission of power by electricity from the tossing stream makes it possible to utilize the stream, which would otherwise be found impracticable because of the rugged nature of the country and the difficulty of wagoning to and from the mills, especially in wet seasons when the roads become impassible. We have seen the roads sometimes become so bad for weeks that it was practically impossible to move empty wagons over them, much less loaded ones. This is a contingency to which all mills at any distance from railroads are subjected. It may be said that better roads might be provided, which is true, but it is about as difficult to provide good roads in this country as it is to build mills, and more difficult than to arrange for the transmission of electric power from the streams to some desirable point where the bad road difficulty would no longer be a dread. As we see it this transmission of power is going to have a great effect in the establishment of new mills in the Piedmont section.

Another factor is the instalment plan, to which reference is made in the extract we quote, which, by the way, was inaugurated in this State, and first put into practice in Charlotte, where it has met with such success that it will doubtless be followed up in other localities and in other States. There is nothing to prevent mills from being established on this plan in any cotton-growing locality where there are people of anything like progressive spirit or reasonable thrift. Thus mills can be established with a small amount of ready money which, established in the ordinary way, would require a considerable amount of money.

There is another advantage in mills established on this plan, where the operatives become stockholders. They thus become profit-sharers, take more personal interest in the success of the business and trades unions would have little influence if the effort were made to introduce them. It may be incidentally remarked that one of the causes looked to to eventually lessen the power of Southern mills to undersell Northern mills is the trades unions, through whose instrumentality it has been predicted, and doubtless hoped, wage agitations would be started and Southern mills would be confronted with strikes, &c., as Northern mills have been.

So far the trades unions have not met with much encouragement, several attempts have been made to introduce them. The only cotton mill strike of any importance so far as we know of, caused through their agency, was some time ago at Augusta, Ga., where it failed after the strikers had remained idle for several weeks.

But the cotton manufacturing industry in the South is not likely to suffer much from that cause until the mills are more central than they are likely to be for some years to come. The advantages which our mills possess, some of which are enumerated in the above extract, they will in all probability continue to hold for many years.

CANNED GOODS.

We clip the following in reference to the exports of canned goods from the Baltimore Hervld:

"Statistics of exports of canned goods from the United States shows that during the first nine months of the present Government fiscal year, up up to April 1, there was shipped out of this country a total valuation of $9,209,038, as compared with $7,649.645 during the corresponding months of the next preceding fiscal year, or an increase of $1,559,293.

"Such testimony as this shows that the popularity of American canned goods is growing in other countries, notwithstanding the endeavors made to exclude them in various places by means of severe restrictions. The increase in the nine months was more than 20 per cent., a gain which would have been really remarkable even if accomplished without opposition, but it is exceedingly surprising when the antagonism displayed in certain countries toward our products is considered. It is a record to be proud of, particularly in Baltimore, which is so extensively interested in the packing trade.

"No doubt the market for our canned goods will widen rapidly in foreign lands as their excellent qualities becomes more generally known. The walls of prejudice and self-interest are hard to break down, but little by little inroads have been made upon them with highly encouraging consequences. Our packers need entertain no doubt that they will eventually enjoy a liberal share of the world's trade in all kinds of canned goods.

This is a gratifying exhibit as far as it goes, but the South does not figure in it, for we doubt if there is a pound of canned goods exported from any point south of Baltimore. Notwithstanding the fact that we raise in abundance every thing that is canned food, we not only do not can anything for export, but we do not can enough to meet our own home demands, but depend upon Northern canners to supply us in the Fall and Winter with the fruits and vegetables that we let go to waste and rot in the Summer.

We grow small fruits and vegetables for the early Northern markets and when the price falls too low to justify picking and shipping, we let the crops rot in the fields, and what might, if taken care of and preserved, bring in many thousands of dollars to our fruit and truck-growers, yields nothing.

The peach-growers of Georgia pursued this course until experience tanght them the folly of it, and they established canneries in some sections to perserve the surplus for which profitable markets could not be found. The South should and could, with ordinary thrift, furnish the bulk of these exported canned goods in addition to supplying her own needs.

A FRENCH VIEW OF IT.

That was an interesting interview with that French editor, on the war in the Philippines, published in the STAR of Sunday. It is interesting not so much on account of the opinions he express as an account of his conversations with Gen. Otis, Admiral Dewey, Commissioner Schurman and the President of the Philippine Committee of Manila.

Gen. Otis after expressing his satisfaction with the results of his military operations asserted confidence in his ability to crush the "insurgents" but confessed that it would take a long time, which logically means that a good many lives must be sacrificed and much treasure expended.

Admiral Dewey concedes the bravery and fighting qualities of the Filipinos, but says they lack military skill, and denies that they were ever our "allies." But yet it is a fact that the leaders of the insurrection against Spain returned to the Philippines after conferences and understanding with American representatives, and went from Hong Kong to the Philippines in an American ship. And it is a fact, too, that they were supplied with arms and ammunition by our representatives, and acted in concert with the American commanders, which concert lasted up to the breaking out of hostilities between our troops and Aguinaldo's followers. Technically they may not have been our "allies," practically they were, and so regarded themselves.

President Schurman, of the Peace Commission, speaks rather for himself than for the Commission, but he is presumed to voice the sentiments of the Commission. He would be willing to grant the islands autonomy, under an American protectorate, and that, from all that has been reported, the Filipinos would be willing to accept. But why isn't something like this said to the "insurgents? If the administration is willing to grant this much why not so declare and cease the hide and seek game it has been playing so long, the Commission pursuing one course and Gen. Otis directly the opposite?

As the representative of the Philippine committee says, Aguinaldo may be laboring under the delusion that he will have the backing of other powers, which is possible, of course, but not very probable, at least for a good while, when possibly there might be some excuse for interference on the ground of "humanity," one of the principal grounds on which we justified interference in the case of Cuba.

Take the interview as a whole, it gives some idea of the tangled mess over there, and confirms the opinion expressed by General Lawton and others since that it will take a large army and a long time to establish our supremacy and bring peace to the Philippines.

— Columbus News: Deputy Sheriff W. H. Thompson received Thursday morning the painful news of the death of his father, Mr. Henry Thompson, which occurred at his home about three and a half miles southeast of Whiteville. He had been in feeble health for about two years. He was one of Columbus county's oldest and best citizens.

— Albemarle Enterprise: A sheaf of bearded wheat is to be seen in the store of Morrow Bros. and Heath Co. that ought to take the premium at any fair. It weighs 29 pounds, and every head is full of large and well rounded grains. The sheaf is not a selected one, but, on the other hand, is a very small part of a 35 acre field of the same kind, grown by Mr. Ira B. Miller, of our town.

— Statesville Mascot: During a thunder storm last Thursday afternoon James King, colored, who lived on Mr. Jason Sherrill's farm, two miles from Monbo, in Catawba county, was killed by lightning. The negro was sitting in his door when the fatal bolt came. The other members of his family were shocked, but not seriously hurt. The building was not injured.

— Warrenton Record: A colored man named, Joe Brown, who lives near Warrenton, has been playing quite a smart trick on Mr. W. N. Ellis, the shuttle block saw mill man. He sold a small load of wood to Mr. Ellis nearly every day, so Mr. Ellis suspected something wrong and set a watch Friday night in his yard, which had a good deal of timber on it. He was caught in his trick of getting wood from the yard at night and then driving back in the morning and selling to Mr. Ellis the wood he had stolen. He is now in jail awaiting the criminal court.

— Lincoln Journal: John F. Gibbs, of Rutherford county, according to the Rutherford Vindicator, is the owner of a 3-year-old heifer which has never given birth to a calf, but which gives six quarts of milk a day. —— John Pack, aged 17 years, was instantly killed at Bowling Green, just below Gastonia, Saturday evening. He had gone on an excursion to Chester that day, and was on his return, when, as the train was running rapidly by Bowling Green, he jumped off. His head struck a cross-tie and his skull was crushed. —— John McDaniel, a Haywood county counterfeiter, was arrested Sunday and is now in jail at Waynesville. He had a pint of pewter nickels of his own make on hand, also a pair of moulds made very much like an ordinary wooden lemon squeezer, quite a supply of glass, babbitt, pewter, lead, etc. All this paraphernalia of a regular counterfeiter was found in this man's humble domicile. —— The corps of engineers engaged in surveying the railroad between this place and Morganton is now in the neighborhood of Mr. S. A. Sain. On Wednesday the corps surveyed eight miles and in that whole distance they say there will not have to a fill two feet high nor a cut two feet deep. The corps will reach Lincolnton within the next few days.

The professor, on the rostrum, opened a book. "Mr. Terwilliger," he said, turning, so that he faced the young man three seats from the middle aisle, "will you tell us something about the system of marriage that prevailed among the early Greeks?"

The young man rose. "In Greece," he began, "a man was allowed to take unto himself but one wife."

"Quite right," nodded the professor, "and now, Mr. Terwilliger, will you tell us how the Greeks defined their marriage system, what they called it?"

The brow of the young man contracted. Then his face lighted up and he replied, with gusto, "They called it—let me think —ah, yes—they called it monotony, sir."—Detroit Free Press.

SIZE OF THE BRAIN.

SOME POPULAR ERRORS ON THIS SUBJECT CORRECTED.

The Intellect Not Indicated by the Weight, Convolutions or the Amount of Gray Matter That Is Held In Man's Cranium.

The fact has been pretty well established that an important relation exists between a man's brain and the quality and quantity of his mental work. But it looks very much as if a number of erroneous theories had been current in regard to the purely physical evidence of one's intellectual capacity. In The Popular Science Monthly Dr. Joseph Simms discredits several such notions.

Probably the most prevalent of these delusions is the belief that ability and force of character are proportional to weight of brain matter. On this point Dr. Simms has collected a great deal of interesting data. The heaviest brain belonging to a talented person of which he has been able to obtain any definite information is that of the novelist Turgeneff. This weighed 71 ounces at the time of his death. The Scottish physician Abercrombie had 63 ounces of brain, the Scottish General Abercromby 69 and General B. F. Butler the same. Another group of nine eminent men, including Thackeray, Cuvier and the infamous Jeffreys, had brains weighing between 54 and 58.6 ounces. The author of "Vanity Fair," then, was blessed with 15 ounces less than the man who wrote "Dimitri Roudine." The first Napoleon, Daniel Webster, Agassiz and Chalmers are among 21 famous persons whose brains weighed from 50 to 53.6 ounces. It is instructive to compare the endowments of the hero of Jena and Austerlitz with those of the leader of the expedition against Fort Fisher and then to recall that the latter had about ten ounces more pulp inside his cranium than the greatest general of modern times.

In another group of 25 men having from 40 to 49.9 ounces of brain one finds Grote, Babbage, Bertillon, Liebig, Bishop (the mind reader) and Gambetta. The figures given for the last named are 40.9. Now, the average weight of the brains of several hundred boys between the ages of 7 and 14 was found by Dr. Boyd to be 45.9 ounces, and for boys ranging from 4 to 7 years 40.2. Gambetta steered the French republic through one of its most dangerous crises. His death was pronounced "the sudden extinction of a powerful individual force, one of the most powerful indeed of such forces hitherto operating in Europe." Yet in the scales his brain counted for less than that of the average boy of 7!

The impossibility of estimating the quality of a man's mind from the weight of the organ in which it resides is further illustrated by the following statements: An idiot boy of 14, who nearly killed his sister, had a brain weighing 67.5 ounces. Another idiot, who was older, possessed 59.5 ounces, an amount equaled by only five of the famous men in Dr. Simms' list, and yet exceeded by at least 11 persons who were distinctively idiotic. Dr. Ireland cites an imbecile, for instance, with 70.5 ounces of brain, and there is a record of an illiterate and weak minded man with 71.3 ounces. The Army Medical museum in Washington contains the brain of a dwarfed Indian squaw which weighed 73.5 ounces, and even these figures are exceeded in the case cited by Bischoff of an ignorant workman, Rustan, who is credited with 78.8 ounces.

Dr. Austin Flint of New York in his "Physiology" makes the average brain weight for men 50.2 ounces. Foreign authorities give other figures, and these are higher than Dr. Flint's in most cases. Dr. Simms strikes an average and adopts 53.9 as a standard. The mean for his 60 famous men is only 51.3 ounces, making them, on the whole, below the average of ordinary men in the quantity of their brains. But the mean for Dr. Simms' idiots and imbeciles is 59.4 ounces!

The folly of attempting to judge of a man by his cranial "bumps" was exposed many years ago by Oliver Wendell Holmes. He made the professor at the breakfast table say: "The walls of the head are double, with a great chamber of air between them, over the smallest and most crowded organs. Can you tell me how much money there is in the safe, which also has thick walls, by kneading the knobs with your fingers? So, when a man fumbles about my forehead and talks about the organs of individuality and size, I trust him as much as I should if he felt over the outside of my strong box and told me that there was a $5 or a $10 bill under this or that rivet. Perhaps there is, only he doesn't know anything about it."

Not only is it impossible to judge of the brain by external appearance and bulk, but even when the size of the cavity within affords little clew to the amount of matter therein. Except in rare cases of disease, says Dr. Simms, the brain does not fit the skull. It is surrounded by three membranes and a watery fluid.

If the weight of a man's brain indicates anything at all, it is more likely to tell his nationality and birthplace than how gifted he is. It has been noted in tables of brain weights that cold northern countries produce bigger brains than warm, tropical ones do. The largest average is attained in Scotland.

Another popular error is the supposition that large convolutions and deep and tortuous passages between the subdivisions of a brain betray superior power. Certain rodents, like the beaver, evince a high order of intelligence and engineering skill, and yet their brains are devoid of convolutions. Again, the whale has a larger brain, which is divided by deep fissures, but the creature's mental power is insignificant compared with man's. Even the elephant, intelligent as it is, cannot be ranked above man, and yet its brain is larger than the human brain, and the fissures in it are much more complicated.

A theory that has been received with considerable favor relates to the coating of gray matter that overlies the brain and dips down into the fissures. This substance, also known as the "cortex," has been supposed to be the seat of the highest order of mental action, and mental capacity has therefore been measured by the thickness of the cortical layer. That such estimates are unwarranted is the positive conviction of Dr. Simms. He presents only a little evidence on this point, but that little is of a striking character. The average thickness of the gray matter is one-fifth of an inch. But in Daniel Webster there was only one-sixteenth of an inch, less than one-third of the normal amount. In many of the lower animals and in persons below the average in intelligence a thicker cortex has been found than in Webster's brain.

The writer in The Popular Science Monthly is thus led to remark, "None of the suppositions about certain qualities of mind inhering in particular portions of the brain have been proved, nor have they stood the tests of science."

Saltest Lake In the World.

This is Lake Urumia, in Persia, situated more than 4,000 feet above the level of the sea. It contains 22 per cent of salt as against 8.5 per cent in the Dead sea. The lake is 84 miles long and 24 miles broad and its northern coasts are incrusted with a border of salt glittering white in the sun. No living thing can survive in it except a species of very small jellyfish.

The Indian Family.

In the family relation the Indian shows a side which is attractive. He loves his wife and family as we love ours, and he thinks of them before thinking of himself. But besides the natural affection that any animal has for its young the Indian cares for his children for another reason. He is intensely patriotic. His pride in his tribe and its achievements is very strong. He glories in the prowess of its braves and the wisdom of its chiefs; his soul thrills as he hears told over and over again the stories of the victories which his people have won over their enemies; he rejoices at the return of a successful war party.

In the children growing up in the camp, in the boys shooting their blunt headed arrows at the blackbirds and ground squirrels, or yelling and shouting with excitement in the mimic warfares which constitute a part of their sport, in the girls whom he sees nursing their puppies or helping their mothers at their work, he recognizes those who a few years hence must bear the responsibilities of the tribe, uphold its past glories or protect it from danger, as he and his ancestors have done. No wonder he loves them. Indians seldom punish their children, yet usually these are well trained, though chiefly by advice and counsel.—George Bird Grinnell in Atlantic.

LONDON.

Haunted by all the historic smiles and tears
Of many a great soul vanished into space,
Tomb of prides, sins and passions, pure or base,
Yet theater where life loudly domineers,
From fabulous epochs through a thousand years
Of battle and dear bought peace your annals trace,
Till now (on earth man's mightiest meeting place)
Your vastness this columbar fame uprears!

In fogs of noonday night, in rains and sleets,
In yellow and silver mists or suns blood red,
Or violet slps of cloud, deep charm I see.
For always through your monstrous maze of streets,
With steps unechoing, walk your deathless dead,
O city of ghosts, that can so ghostly be!
—Edgar Fawcett in Literature.

FOREIGN LANGUAGES.

We Never Know Them Until We Dream In Them.

Professor Leon Wiener of Harvard college has discovered an infallible test to prove when a student of languages has mastered a foreign tongue.

His observations are based entirely on dreams. If an American is studying French there is no definite way to indicate just when he begins to speak and think in French without mentally retranslating his thoughts back to English.

Many students learn several languages, but a very considerable part of their thinking is carried out in their mother tongue. This is not a detriment by any means, but it proves that the student has not completely mastered the tongue he happens to be studying.

If, however, he finds himself dreaming in French or German or Latin or even Spanish, he can rest assured that he has entirely grasped a foreign tongue and is a master of it.

Some men who are good French scholars, yet of English birth, are able to entirely dismiss their native tongue and think and speak entirely in French, seldom, if ever, resorting to the slightest thought in English except in so far as intelligent men think of all things.

Among Professor Wiener's pupils there are many young men who have come to him with joy in their hearts because they have had dreams in foreign tongues. The professor himself is master of 28 distinct languages and dreams in them all whenever his mind happens to be occupied with researches in any of them.

This condition proves that the brain has absorbed all the elements of the language under study and is in such absolute control that it plays tricks with it.

The English student considers himself blessed indeed who can dream of a trip through Paris, with French people, French customs and the French language running through his head. When these things begin to occur he can get up the next morning and say to himself, "I am a finished French scholar."—New York Journal.

St. George's Lake.

St. George's lake, in Liberty, is said to be one of the handsomest sheets of water in Maine. It is fed almost entirely by springs, and its waters are so clear that objects on its bottom can be seen plainly when the water is many feet deep. The water at the outlet of the lake passes down a descent, and the fall in three-quarters of a mile is estimated to be 175 feet.

LIFE IN LAZY PARIS.

BUSINESS WAYS THAT WOULD PARALYZE OUR HUSTLERS.

The Working Hours Are From Nine o'Clock Till Five, With Two Hours Deducted For Lunch—House Servants Have Every Afternoon Off.

The last two decades have marked the growth of not a few large commercial undertakings in France. Some of these employ thousands of men, have agencies throughout all the provinces of the country and are even represented in every large foreign city in Christendom, but it is a curious fact that the larger any establishment grows here the more leisure has everybody connected with it. The young French clerk or bookkeeper would throw up his position, even though such an act meant bread and water for years to come, if his employer dared to import what are becoming known on the continent as "American methods." He wants to come down to his work certainly not earlier than 9 o'clock—it is oftener 10 that finds him before his desk—and if his hours at noon are abridged by the smallest quarter hour sulkiness and surliness are the sequel. In positions just a grade above his the incumbents stroll in at 10, lunch from noon to any hour they please and never stay later than 5 o'clock at their offices.

This accounts for what is so often observed with astonishment by Americans sojourning abroad. They wonder that the cafes are full at all hours of the day with prosperous men; whose conversation shows them to be engaged in what even the blue blooded Frenchman is beginning to mention respectfully as "la commerce." The explanation is now evident. These "merchants"—every business man here is a "merchant"—ruminate over their affairs in the shade of a cafe awning instead of behind the forbidding railing of a private office. Every one of them might be a literary lounger as far as his appearance is concerned. Immaculate boots, spotless linen and highly polished top hat—all proclaim that they do not by any means give all their time to "business," and that if all is hurry and industrial fervor at their offices they at least will not stoop to become a part of it for more than four or five hours a day.

As for the proprietor himself, he is often not a true rara avis at the establishment. His head clerks and confidential men come to him in his pleasant country villa or city palace when he desires information. He pays wages of superintendence and has forgotten, if he ever knew, the name of his bookkeeper.

I have no so many large Paris establishments in my mind while writing this that mentioning one or two would be of no use. But in one of the largest soap and perfumery houses in the world, that fairyland of color and fragrance that looks out upon the Place de la Madeleine, one of the severe reminders of the employees consists of a sign hanging near the door—"Messieurs the clerks are prayed to recall that not more than two hours can be allowed during the summer for dejeuner."

And even in the large department stores, which the French believe to be unequaled for size and convenience by any others in the world, such a thing as a clerk working overtime or curtailing his midday meal for any purpose whatsoever has never, I am assured, been heard of. In the store clerks and accountants are obliged to attend to their monotonous but never hurried duties. The moment a certain gong strikes they don their glossy high hats, change their short coats for the courtly length required on the boulevards and immediately seek their favorite restaurant or cafe, where they become gentlemen of leisure, "rentiers," and talk of political affairs or the last salon, with highly judicial air and critical eye, as if there were not yards of ribbon and silk waiting for their hands during the afternoon.

All this is very fine, and nobody would wish it replaced by a different system perhaps. But it is not what we Americans call "business." It is not in accord with the persuasion that time is money, and these polite loungers, swaying and idling in their chairs while the sun on high is attending strictly to his daily work, do not help to give Paris the atmosphere of a beehive. The newcomer's first impression is that every class of Parisians rest and recuperate and talk "affairs" at least two-thirds of the day.

For what is true of large business houses is equally so of the small tradespeople. If you are coming to Paris to live for some months, be warned and do not try to have the affairs of your menage progress between the hours of 11 and 2. The charbonnier will not bring your coal, the grocer and butcher will not deliver orders, and the concierge, paid to attend to your wants, will not bring up letters, papers or packages between the limits mentioned. That interval almost universally and quite inexorably belongs to each person, however humble he his state, born in the free and lazy air of France. The sun, as before hinted, is the only cosmological adjunct which agrees to continue business. The household servants are perhaps the only exception, and they get indemnity by going off every afternoon the moment the work is done to take a "petite promenade au soleil." Unless you allow your servants this "right," as they consider it, you will get but poor service and little faithfulness from them.

The very omnibuses go slower and are greatly reduced in number, the great depots are deserted and the resting locomotives snore softly under the great iron arches, the long freight trains behind them packed to bursting for those who are out yonder in the green country waiting for the goods they have ordered. But the freight trains, too, are waiting, waiting, waiting, and it will be 2 or 3 o'clock before the warning whistle blows once more. The factories of the Gobelins and those at Sevres, the ministerial offices and the telegraph bureau—all are wrapped in a siesta as deep as ever clasped in its dreamy embrace a little Spanish town nestling near the shadow of the Alhambra. The bicyclist, fearful of the rush of carriages on the Avenue de l'Opera during the morning, when thousands of energetic strangers are going a-sightseeing, finds no spice of danger now. He has all the highway to himself. The winding Boulevard des Capucines is given up to sparrows and buzzing flies. One almost expects to find weeds growing up in the cracks of the pavement.—Boston Herald.

An Eye For an Eye.

The law of Afghanistan is in theory the same with that of Mohammedan countries in general—that of the Koran. This is, an eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth, and enables the party wronged to avenge himself on a relative if circumstances prevent him from reaching the aggressor in person. Hence revenge becomes, among the Afghans, a point of honor, which no man may waive except with disgrace.

In Favor of the Moon.

A colored debating society in Jones' precinct had this weighty subject under discussion the other night, "Which is the most useful, the sun or the moon?" After considerable wrangling on both sides, during which they waxed warm and eloquent, the judge, an old negro, promptly decided that the moon was the most useful as it "shined at night, when the people needed light, while the sun he only shined in the daytime, when they could do without it."—Shelbyville (Ky.) Sentinel.

No Public Display.

A New York clergyman tells the following: "I and the other guests were offered wine at a German wedding where I officiated. I refused, saying: 'No, thank you. I never drink wine in public.'

"A little while after I saw 'mine host' beckoning me to an adjoining room. There he had two glasses, one of which he offered me, saying: 'I heard you say that you didn't drink in public. Here nobody will see you.' "—Homiletic Review.

Her Pets.

"Are you very fond of pets?" asked the interviewer.

"Well," replied the sensational actress, "I like Skye terriers and alligators and parrots, marmosets and tiger cubs, but I must say I have become rather tired of husbands."—Washington Star.

According to the computations of Professor Hamy, the black race embraces about one-tenth of the living members of the human species, or 150,000,000 individuals.

The Professional Burglar.

The professional burglars belong to a special class, stereotyped and exclusive, forming a community of their own. These men take a peculiar pride in their "profession," and a certain amount of union exists between its members. If a burglar is in trouble, his friends will pay for the defense, though they are not above betraying each other occasionally if circumstances require it. The receiver of stolen goods works hand in hand with these men, and without them the profits of the robberies would be small.

It is difficult to state as to how far the love of excitement and adventure instigates the burglar to crime; but that it plays an important part, of this there can be no doubt. To creep along house tops in the dark, to mount ladders and lay wire traps for the upsetting of inmates should they run out to give an alarm, to screw up the doors of dressing rooms and tamper with domestics, all these pursuits doubtless have their fascination to the criminal mind.—Gentleman's Magazine.

Both Wanted Bites.

A sportsman went out fishing on a highland loch, his companion being the estate keeper, Sandy McKay. The gentleman proved rather unsuccessful with his rod, and after persevering for a couple of hours he said:

"I think we may as well go home now, Sandy. The trout won't bite today."

When they went ashore, the sportsman offered the keeper some sherry, which that functionary declined.

"I've got no whisky," said the gentleman. "What is your objection to a drop of sherry?"

"Weel," replied Sandy, "if ye maun ken, it's the same objection as ye hae tae the troot the day—it winna bite."—Dundee Courier.

Wives, Beware!

An expectant mother had better not take anything at all than those positively dangerous mixtures so widely advertised to relieve her discomfort and nausea. She ought to know that outside external treatment is the only way that can possibly be of any benefit. She ought to know that Mother's Friend is the only remedy that will help her, and it is an external liniment. It takes her through the entire period in comparative comfort, shortens labor, and childbirth is no longer to be dreaded. More than that, it preserves her girlish shape after the ordeal, and her little one will come into the world perfect in form and health.

The Morning Star.

WILMINGTON, N. C.

TUESDAY MORNING, JUNE 20, 1899.

THE COTTON INTEREST ESPECIALLY DEPRESSED.

A Georgia Planter Before the Industrial Commission—Complaint As to Railroad Rates.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—The industrial commission has somewhat changed its plan for the work of the sub-commissions during the Summer months by revoking its order for the appointment of special commissions to investigate the elevator trust and the mining industry west of the Mississippi river, and instead, authorizing all the regular sub commissions to sit during July and August. Under this arrangement the agricultural commission will take up the elevator question, going to the Northwestern States for this purpose, and the mining commission will go West, for the purpose of looking into the conditions affecting mining in that region. James Barrett, vice president of the George State Agricultural Society, was the only witness before the commission to day. He spoke upon the agricultural conditions of the South, saying that they were worse to-day than they had ever been in the history of the country. He said the cotton interest was especially depressed, prices last year amounting to a little over 4 cents a pound. At this price a man could not save himself, if he paid wages amounting to more than $3 a month. Planters generally pay about $6 a month for wages and at such rates they could not prevent loss if they received less than six cents per pound.

Mr. Barrett said that nine-tenths of the cotton grown was mortgaged before it matured. Rates of interest and commissions were high, and the merchants were gradually coming into possession of the land. The banks charge 10 per cent. for money for three months time. He advanced the idea that the national bank act has done vast damage in outlawing real estate as security for money loaned by these banks and that all-told this act was to the South the most damaging legislation that had ever been enacted.

The witness said that nearly all the plantation labor was done by negroes, and that there was practically no immigration because of the cheapness of labor and the social conditions.

The railroad rates were such as to render it impossible to longer make watermelon-growing profitable, and the same was true of other garden products. "The railroads are both the daddy and the mammy of the trusts," he asserted.

Mr. Barret said the census of 1890 has shown that Augusta, Ga., where he lives, was the most illiterate place in the United States, and he thought the fact was due to the presence of too much politics in the schools.

GANG OF MASKED ROBBERS.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

PHILADELPHIA, June 19.—A gang of masked robbers, probably ten in number, early this morning raided the receiving office of the Fairmount Park Transportation Company, at Belmont, in Fairmount Park, and after holding up the receiver and five other employes of the railway, blew open the safe, securing $3,500.55, the company's receipts for two days.

In addition to the men who actually committed the robbery, others operated miles away from the scene, by cutting telegraph and telephone wires connecting with the trolley company's main office. Peter Duffert and Chas. Smith, who say they live in Newark, N. J., and Albert Leeds, of Philadelphia, were arrested in Fairmount Park this afternoon, on suspicion of being connected with the robbery. They were sent to prison for a further hearing in default of bail.

Chas. A. Porter, president of the Fairmount Park Transportation Company, said this afternoon: "There si every reason to believe that some former employes of the transportation company were implicated in this robbery. We have been compelled to fire men of whom we knew little. The familiarity of the robbers with the methods pursued by the company, shows that they were not ignorant outsiders. It is my opinion that expert cracksmen have gained the ear of some of the discharged employes, and in that way the conspiracy was hatched and carried to a successful outcome."

CALIFORNIA VOLUNTEERS.

A Regiment Has Been Tendered the President for Immediate Service in the Philippines.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—The following telegram was received at the War Department to-day from the two California Senators:

San Francisco, June 17.—Hon. H. G. Corbin, Adjutant General.—Southern California supports the administration in its efforts to suppress the Philippines insurrection, and tenders the President for immediate service a well organized and thoroughly disciplined regiment of infantry. Officers and men are ready to embark as soon as the necessary field equipment can be furnished.

GEORGE C. PERKINS,
STEPHEN M. WHITE.

It is stated at the War Department that no action can be taken in the matter of the California regiment offered by Senators Perkins and White. The question of calling for volunteers has not been determined; beside, it is not intended to organize State troops if volunteers are called for.

FRANCE'S MINISTERIAL CRISIS.

M. Waldeck-Rousseau Declines the Task of Forming a New Cabinet.

By Cable to the Morning Star.

PARIS, June 19.—It was announced late this evening that Senator Waldeck-Rousseau had declined the task of forming a new cabinet. The failure of M. Waldeck-Rousseau is due, it is said, to the refusal of Camille Krantz to accept the portfolio of public works, which he considers inferior to the portfolio of war, held by him in the retiring cabinet. But for this the Waldeck-Rousseau slate was complete.

FIERCE FIGHTING WITH FILIPINOS.

Gen. Wheaton's Command Attacked in the Rear by Friendly Natives.

AN ENGAGEMENT FOLLOWED.

Five Americans Killed and Twenty-five Wounded — Enemy's Loss Heavy. Reinforcements Arrive and the Fight Still in Progress.

By Cable to the Morning Star.

MANILA, June 19.—A battalion of the Fourth infantry, which left Imus where Gen. Wheaton is in command, this morning, to reconnoitre towards Peres Las Marinas, where it is believed most of the rebels who escaped from Paranque and Bacoor had fled, was attacked in the rear by apparently friendly natives. This brought on a sharp engagement, lasting several hours, resulting in five Americans being killed and about twenty-five being wounded. The loss of the rebels was very heavy.

The battalion soon exhausted its ammunition and at 2:30 this afternoon General Wheaton and his staff with the second battalion, two mounted guns and one field-piece, went to reinforce the troops attacked. General Wheaton was fired on in a road and had a narrow escape. Later the third battalion was ordered to the front and formed on the Las Marinas road. Heavy firing on both sides followed, the artillery being freely used.

The enemy was located in the woods at 4 o'clock, showing signs of retiring, as the rebels were being pressed very hard. One gun of the Sixth artillery, in an advantageous position, did great execution.

The fighting was still in progress at 5 o'clock, at which time the Americans had secured a quantity of Filipino arms which had been abandoned in the woods.

Reinforcements Arrive.

MANILA, June 19.—10.45 A. M.—The United States transport Sherman, which sailed from San Francisco May 24th with 1,800 men and seventy-five officers, under command of Brigadier General Fred. D. Grant, has arrived here after a smooth voyage. One private died after the transport arrived. The troops brought by the transport will go to the island of Negros to relieve the California volunteers. General Bates, who arrived on the transport, and General Grant, will probably be assigned to the commands of the volunteer generals, some of whom will leave for home soon.

Generals Hale and Funston desire to accompany their respective regiments home. The Utah artillery, it is announced, will accompany the Nebraskan troops on board the transport Hancock, leaving their guns here. A MURDEROUS INSTINCT.

Five-Year-Old Child Committed for Examination As to Her Sanity.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW YORK, June 19.—Jennie Fiere, the five year old daughter of Marie and Jos. Fiere, was committed to the insane pavilion at Bellevue hospital to be examined as to her sanity. It is said that she is the youngest person ever committed by a magistrate to an insane institution. Mrs. Fiere told the magistrate that the child has a murderous instinct.

Yesterday the girl was discovered creeping upon the ten months old baby, Tony, who was seated in a high chair. The mother said that she had a butcher knife in her hand and was about to plunge it into the baby's side when she seized her and wrenched the knife from her. The girl then endeavored to jump from the window of the house to the street. A few days ago, Mrs Fiere said, Jennie endeavored to kill her nine-year old brother in the same way, and has made attempts on the life of every member of the family.

City Council to Investigate Charges Made Against Mayor Woodward.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

ATLANTA, GA., June19.—The city council, at its meeting this evening, appointed a committee of five to investigate the charges made by Dr. Broughton in his sermon last night against Mayor Woodward of Atlanta, and which ended in a call for the executive's impeachment. Dr. Broughton was present at the council meeting, but was not heard. Dr. Broughton claims that Mayor Woodward confessed to the charges made against him to-day and has decided to throw himself on the mercy of the council. Mayor Woodward was ill to day and did not leave his house.

A FATAL QUARREL.

Two Virginia Farmers Shoot Each Other in a Dispute Over a Sheep.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

ROANOKE, VA., June 19.—Matthew Pratt and Joseph Raines, farmers, living four miles west of Pulaski, Va., became involved in a quarrel yesterday over a sheep. One word brought on another until finally both men drew revolvers and commenced firing. Pratt was instantly killed and Raines died of his wounds this morning. The men had been on bad terms for some time. Reports are conflicting as to the first cause of the trouble. Pratt's father was tried at Pulaski two years ago for horse stealing, and this probably led to the dispute on Sunday, as all parties were interested in the trial.

ON THE YUKON TRAIL.

Terrible Tale of Suffering and Horror. Men Driven to the Awful Extremity of Cannibalism.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

CIRCLE CITY, ALASKA, May 29, via San Francisco, June 19.—A story of possible cannibalism on the Yukon trail has just reached here. Three men left here for Dahl river on December 5th, for Jimtown, and were not heard of again until the steamer Ridcout, which arrived to-day, brought a terrible tale of suffering and horror.

The men were Michael Daly, Victor Ediar and M. Provost. They were from Providence, R. I., Woonsocket, R. I., and Brockton, Mass., respectively. Their bodies were discovered seventeen miles from the mouth of Old Man's creek, they having lost the trail and become bewildered. Having left Dahl river with only three weeks food, but which was amply sufficient for the 150 miles to Jimtown, but they were soon reduced to starvation.

Daly's body was found partly eaten, on the stove in the tent just as it was left when death overtook the others. Some scraps of moose hide and a moccasin were found, of which they were endeavoring to make a stew. Daly's body was identified by the clothes. The other two men were found dead, five miles away from the tent. The fact of the tent flaps being shut down when found would seem to preclude the possibility of Daly's body having been eaten by animals. The other men doubtless were driven by hunger to the awful extremity of cannibalism. Four hundred dollars were found on the bodies.

THE STATE GUARD.

Bitter Quarrels Between Old and New Companies of the First Regiment.

ENCAMPMENT AT MOREHEAD.

Insurance Companies — Divorce Suits, Penitentiary Claims—Contracts for Convict Labor — Corner-Stone Laying—Bank Failure.

[Special Star Correspondence.]

RALEIGH, N. C. June 19.—So bitter have become the quarrels between the old and new companies at some places that it is now beginning to look as if the State Guard may have to be disbanded and reorganized. The feeling at Waynesville, Asheville, Raleigh and Charlotte is very strong. One day last week the Adjutant General received no less than ten letters taking sides in the controversy and advising that one or the other of the companies be ignored and the other recognized. All hope of adjusting these differences has been abandoned but some course of action in the matter will be decided upon by the Adjutant General.

Letters from Asheville to the Adjutant General convey the information that the members of the Asheville Light Infantry—the old company, which was in the First volunteer regiment—do not desire to remain in service. They charge that the demand for the retention of the company in the Guard comes only from the captain—Capt. Wagner; that he is desirous of becoming a major in the State Guard and thinks that his chance of success depends upon his having a company. In view of these letters the Blue Ridge Rifles will probably be retained and the Asheville Light Infantry not reorganized.

Adjutant General Royster expects to complete the programme for the State Guard encampment next Tuesday. The encampment will be held in July at Morehead.

Insurance Companies.

The Security Mutual Life Insurance Company, of New York came in and complied with the provisions of the Craig Bill. This leaves only five companies that are licensed to do business in the State that have not complied with this law and become domestic corporations.

Divorce Suits.

Two divorce suits have been started here in the Superior Court. One is by Charles Newsom, a New York actor, who asks a dissolution of the marriage tie on the ground that his wife has deserted him. The other is by Daniel Wallace, a man of years old and a veteran of the Mexican and Civil wars. His wife is quite young.

The Board of Agriculture has agreed to let the Corporation Commission have the rooms on the second floor of the Agricultural building, as requested Thursday by Chairman McNeill. The removal to the new quarters will be made at the earliest day practicable.

Penitentiary Claims.

The executive board finds, on completion of its work of auditing and approving the penitentiary claims, that they amount to between $120,000 and $125,000—nearer the former than the latter figure. This includes the debts contracted up to and including March 6th, 1899, the time the bond act passed by the Legislature was ratified.

Next year the farming operations of the penitentiary will be very much contracted, and the convicts will be otherwise employed, hence the purchase of only the Caledonia farms and not of others, as was contemplated by the Legislature. Already new industries are being established at the penitentiary. The latest is a mattress factory, with a capacity of from thirty to forty mattresses a day. The starting of an excelsior factory in connection with it is also under consideration. The manufacture of brick on a large scale was commenced some two months ago; and the shirt factory will soon be in operation again.

Convicts on Railroad Work.

In addition to these things the Executive Board has just closed a contract with a railroad builder for 100 convicts to be furnished him on July 10th at 75 cents a day. On August 1st they are to let him have 300 more on the same terms. These will net the penitentiary $225 a day, as all expense is born by the railroad except the salary of the supervisor and the guards.

These railroad convicts will be under the management of Capt. Bradshaw, and they will be used in building the new railroad from Ashepole, in Robeson county. They will be returned to the penitentiary when the cotton crops on the farms are ready to be picked.

Next year, Chairman Travis says, it is the intention of the Executive Board to put out 400 of the convicts for the entire year on railroad work.

The Governor declines to interfere to prevent the execution of Avery Kale, the murderer of George Travis, Catawba county. Kale is a very young man. The day for his execution has not yet been set.

Corner-Stone Laying.

The corner-stone of the First Presbyterian Church here is to be laid on Wednesday, June 27th, with masonic ceremonies.

A voluntary petition of bankruptcy is filed by M. Summerfield, of Durham.

The Albemarle Steam Navigation Company, of Virginia, has complied with the Craig bill and is now a North Carolina corporation.

The Piedmont Bank failure case will be heard at Morganton on Wednesday, June 28th, before Judge Burwell, referee.

Citizens of Burlington, desirous of enjoying the advantages of railroad competition, have taken steps to secure the building of a branch railroad connecting with the Seaboard road at Pittsboro. A committee has been appointed, the mayor as chairman, to confer with citizens of Greensboro, Graham and other points and confer with the President of the Seaboard Railroad and get him interested in the matter.

Suits in Superior Court.

Suit has been started here in the Superior Court by the executor of Rev. Bennett Smedes, deceased, to compel the sale of the Milburnie property, on Neuse river, some five miles east of this city. This is a very fine water-power.

The city of Raleigh has commenced a damage suit against the Southern Railway to recover the $3,500 paid out by the city on a judgment for damages sustained by Miss Dillon at a Southern Railway street crossing in the city.

The first cotton bloom known in this county this season was brought here Saturday by a farmer living in House Creek township.

Shelby Cotton Mills are incorporated with a capital stock of $99,000 to $300,000.

THE CARTERET LYNCHING.

[Special Star Telegram.]

BEAUFORT, N. C., June 18.—About noon yesterday the coroner received information from Bogue which is a remote district, twenty miles from here by sail-boat, that the body of Lewis Patrick was hanging on a tree near that place. He returned this morning after holding an inquest over the remains of the accused murderer of E.B. Weeks, who was taken from the jail here by the mob Tuesday night. He was kept concealed on an island or in a swamp Wednesday, evading the sheriff's posse that pursued them, and ted to a tree and shot some time during Wednesday night. His body was found Thursday morning along the main road near the store of Weeks, his supposed victim; the head and body were terribly mutilated, at least fifty shots fired into it. Patrick is said to have made a confession, implicating two other negroes whose characters are such that it is not believed, nor will they be molested. The action of the mob is condemned by our citizens, this being the first lynching that has ever taken place in this county.

CLEVELAND CAR STRIKE.

Another Serious Riot—A Mob of More Than 2,000 Men and Women. One Man Hurt.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

CLEVELAND, O., June 19.—Up to 4 o'clock this afternoon this promised to be the most uneventful day in the big street railroad strike. At that hour another serious riot broke out in an entire new quarter and one not union man was sent to the hospital in consequence.

The company began to day the operation of the new lines—those on Scovill and central avenues. The cars were protected by policemen, and until the afternoon no trouble occurred. Just before 4 o'clock two of the Scovill Cars approached the crossing of the Pennsylvania railroad. There they were met with a mob of mose than 2,000 men and women. One of the cars was taken across the railroad safely, but the other was held up by the mob. A perfect shower of paving bricks and stones fell about the car and crashed against the vestibule at the front end, behind which the moterman was concealed. Women threw bricks and handed them to men who were in front of the crowd. The windows of the car had been lowered and the bricks crashed against the seats and fell upon the floor of the car. The conductor escaped injury, but the moterman, A. J. McGrew, of St. Louis, was struck on the head with a brick and rendered unconscious. He was taken to a hospital.

The patrolman on the car was also hit with a brick but was not seriously hurt. A call was made for the police, but when a detachment of officers arrived the mob had dispersed and no arrests were made.

ANNUAL CONVENTION.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEWPORT NEWS, VA., June 19.—The twenty-second annual convention of the Railway Master Mechanics Association of America began its sessions at Old Point to-day.

President Robert Quayle called the convention to order and delivered his annual address. The reports of other officers were read and received. The condition of the organization was shown to be healthy and prosperous, the membership having materially increased in the past year. No business of general interest is scheduled for consideration before this convention.

Odorless Benzene.

A writer in the Wiener Drogisten Zeitung calls attention to a new method of masking the unpleasant odor of petroleum and benzene. This method consists simply in the addition of 1 per cent of amylacetate. To destroy alike the offensive odor of benzene and to render the latter colorless the following treatment is found successful: To a mixture of one-fourth liter of sulphuric acid and 1¾ liters of water are added, after cooling, 80 grams of potassium permanganate, followed by mixing with 4 5-10 liters of benzene, the whole to stand for 24 hours, with occasional shaking. After this period the benzene is lifted off and agitated for several hours with a solution of 7 5-10 grams of the potassium permanganate and 15 grams of sodium carbonate in 1 liter of water, the separating benzene being thus rendered odorless and colorless.
